ANALYSIS

- Yesterday evening Adocia released its 2015 sales figures and its net cash position at the end of the year. In both cases, numbers were very much in line with expectations.
- Revenues reached EUR36.9m for the full-year, including a peak in Q4 2015 as Adocia received a milestone payment of USD10m from Lilly after U200 established its bioequivalence with U100 in a phase Ib study. This is the first milestone out of the remaining USD520m in overall clinical, regulatory and commercial milestones to be paid by Lilly to Adocia if everything turns positive with the BC lispro project. We did not know how this milestone would be accounted for i.e. amortized over a certain period of time or booked as a one-time. As it corresponds to the success of a trial, it has been fully booked in 2015 and recognised in the P&L.
- Below in other revenues, the contribution from the French Research Tax credit amounted to EUR6.8m i.e. almost double the level of 2014, which was not fully anticipated.
- Lastly, without full access to operating costs yet, the EUR72m cash position at the end of the year suggests expenses in Q4 consistent with the plan, with cash-burn of slightly less than EUR6m in the last quarter. Operating expenses are progressing steadily, in line with the development of the company and its expansion. As a reminder, we expect these expenses to reach EUR30m in 2016.

VALUATION

- Adocia has well over two years of visibility. By then it should receive new milestones from Lilly (if only when BC lispro enters phase III, sometime in 2016). Hopefully, new collaborations will be added for the BC combo that would make the situation even more comfortable. Obviously, the environment in the insulin space is moving so quickly that it is not so easy to see how it could turn out in the end but Adocia should be able to finalise a deal in the coming 12 months.
- Although the case has become a little bit more complex on the BC combo side and because of market volatility for biotech stocks in general, the nice development of BC lispro (now EUR63 in our FV) is enough to recommend a BUY.

Bryan Garnier stock rating system

For the purposes of this Report, the Bryan Garnier stock rating system is defined as follows:

Stock rating

BUY	Positive opinion for a stock where we expect a favourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential upside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
NEUTRAL	Opinion recommending not to trade in a stock short-term, neither as a BUYER or a SELLER, due to a specific set of factors. This view is intended to be temporary. It may reflect different situations, but in particular those where a fair value shows no significant potential or where an upcoming binary event constitutes a high-risk that is difficult to quantify. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
SELL	Negative opinion for a stock where we expect an unfavourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential downside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
