Yesterday evening Sopra Steria announced an agreement for the acquisition of 75% of Cassiopae, a French software vendor active in specialised finance and real estate management solutions, for an undisclosed sum and an option to purchase the remaining 25% by 2020. We estimate Cassiopae could add 2% to Sopra Steria's revenues. The acquisition price and operating margin have not been disclosed, but we are confident that Sopra Steria will pay a reasonable price, and we would not be surprised if the deal had a slight accretive impact on EPS over 2016-17.

ANALYSIS

- Cassiopae, a leader in specialised finance and real estate management software. Sopra Steria plans to acquire 75% of KSEOP/Cassiopae through Sopra Banking Software. The founder and his family, and certain managers including the current chairman, Emmanuel Gillet, will retain 25% of the share capital. A subsequent acquisition of this 25% is envisaged by 2020. Founded in 1987 as Orfi, and initially a real estate leasing software vendor based in Paris, Cassiopae offers comprehensive solutions for specialised finance and real estate management. The company, which has 300 customers in Europe, the US, Asia-Pacific, the MEA region and LatAm, posted EUR50.2m revenues in 2014. The operating margin has not been disclosed. The deal is expected to close in Q2 2016 once the usual legal conditions have been satisfied.
- Rationale of the deal. As previously mentioned, Sopra Banking Software aims to double its revenues between 2014 and 2019 from EUR271m. The acquisition of Cassiopae should provide Sopra Banking Software the following: 1). A range of business-specific solutions in distribution, account-keeping, lending, payments and compliance, while addressing specialised finance requirements (real estate and equipment leasing, consumer credit, car loans, factoring and guarantees...), 2). A consolidation of its leadership in the Banking sector, with revenues augmented by 18% to a 2014 pro forma of EUR320m; 3). Potential accretion to Sopra Steria's margins, as Sopra Banking Software would account for an est. 14% of group revenues (vs. 12% previously); 4). Potential synergies on revenues and costs.
- A deal which looks mildly EPS accretive at first glance. We estimate Cassiopae would add 2% to Sopra Steria's revenues. The acquisition price and the operating margin have not been disclosed, but we are confident that Sopra Steria will pay a reasonable price for it (less than 1x revenues) and we would not be surprised the deal could be slightly accretive to EPS from 2016-17. The analysts' meeting which will take place on 29th February for presenting FY15 results will be the chance to get more details on this acquisition.

Bryan Garnier stock rating system

For the purposes of this Report, the Bryan Garnier stock rating system is defined as follows:

Stock rating

BUY	Positive opinion for a stock where we expect a favourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential upside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
NEUTRAL	Opinion recommending not to trade in a stock short-term, neither as a BUYER or a SELLER, due to a specific set of factors. This view is intended to be temporary. It may reflect different situations, but in particular those where a fair value shows no significant potential or where an upcoming binary event constitutes a high-risk that is difficult to quantify. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
SELL	Negative opinion for a stock where we expect an unfavourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation.
