ANALYSIS

- With the company being active in mainly mature markets where volume and prices are under pressure, management is keeping a strong lid on costs. The drive for small cost-efficient operations has allowed operating margins at the company to improve to 15.2% in 2015 from 11% in 2011. We believe there is further upside (although downplayed by management) and look for a margin of over 17% in the next five years. If Finland and the Baltics could enjoy an economic rebound, the margin could well reach 20%.
- Being close to the operations also has commercial benefits. In Denmark, the company gained share in beer to 16% in 2015 from 14% in 2009 and, in the first quarter of 2016, the company boosted Finnish volumes by 23% as it looks for ways to cement links with the biggest Finnish retailer whilst promoting product tasting. Furthermore, as a small-sized brewer (9.1m hl) most of the company's products are in the sweet spot of profitability and consumer sentiment that increasingly asks for authenticity. On top of that, the company could be a major beneficiary of Carlsberg's value management strategy, which includes increased beer prices in Denmark and Finland, where Royal Unibrew generates two thirds of its profits.
- Being in mature cash-generative markets allows for a great platform for further acquisitions but, in the absence of any suitable projects, the company is buying back shares. If a material acquisition is not forthcoming, the company has significant potential to extend its share buy-backs. However, the company could be increasingly looked at as a target, offering not only a strong management team, but also the opportunity to extract more value from the company using global cost efficiencies and introducing owned international brands.

VALUATION

- On 2017e numbers, Royal Unibrew trades at below the sector valuation (the 2016e figures are somewhat distorted for TAP and ABI). Its 2017e P/E of 18.8x compares with the sector at 20.4x and EPS growth of 7% is in line with the sector's. However, the company is far less geared than the other brewers. Its net debt/EBITDA ratio stands at 0.8x for 2016e compared to 2.4x for the sector. Furthermore, if we take into account the value of its stake in Hansa Borg, net debt/EBITDA falls to 0.3x. This indicates the significant value creation that the company could achieve if it were to find an attractive acquisition target or buy back up to 20% of its shares. In terms of EV/EBITDA, Royal Unibrew is at 11.8x whereas the sector trades at 12.4x 2017e numbers (for the sector valuations we have excluded SABMiller which is the subject of a takeover bid from AB InBev.)
- Our DCF-based fair value of DKK325 for Royal Unibrew is based on a consistent method to generate fair values using a standardised DCF model. Following this, our valuations are compared against a peer group in order to formulate our final investment view.

Bryan Garnier stock rating system

For the purposes of this Report, the Bryan Garnier stock rating system is defined as follows:

Stock rating

BUY	Positive opinion for a stock where we expect a favourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential upside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
NEUTRAL	Opinion recommending not to trade in a stock short-term, neither as a BUYER or a SELLER, due to a specific set of factors. This view is intended to be temporary. It may reflect different situations, but in particular those where a fair value shows no significant potential or where an upcoming binary event constitutes a high-risk that is difficult to quantify. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
SELL	Negative opinion for a stock where we expect an unfavourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential downside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
