Yesterday morning adidas pre-released some of its Q2 numbers given the significant discrepancy with consensus estimates. Following an impressive operating performance in Q2 (sales up 21% FX-n, op profit up 77% and ~47% excl. one-time gain related to the early termination of the Chelsea contract), the group has revised its FY 2016 sales and earnings targets upwards for the third time in a row since March. We will adjust our FY16-18 expectations after the H1 results conference call next week (4th August), hence we are placing our FV under review.

ANALYSIS

- Group sales reached EUR4.4bn (+13%) close to the consensus' expectations (EUR4.4bn) as reported but once again organic growth beat estimates (+21% FX-n vs. +19%e), hence no deceleration vs. the first quarter (+22% FX-n). In our view, this performance should be more balanced between Sport Performance and Lifestyle (+22% FX-n and +45% respectively in Q1) as the former was boosted by major sporting events in Football (Copa America, EURO Championship) and ahead of the Rio Olympic Games that kick off next week. Naturally other categories like Training or Running should also grow in double-digits. All key regions have grown at double-digit growth rates but the performance from North America will be interesting to track (BG: +20%e) as it would be a symbol of the success of ADS' new strategy.
- Group operating profit soared 77% to EUR414m (CS: EUR330m). This implies an approx. 340bp improvement in operating margin to 9.4%. Even if this performance was partly helped by a one-off gain of ~EUR70m (~+160bp, see below), we believe that ADS' GM benefited from: (i) a positive price/product/geo mix that offset the negative FX impact and (ii) significant operating leverage, helped by strong organic growth.
- A one-time gain of EUR70m (BG ests) registered in Q2. Last May, the Group announced the early termination by mutual consent of its existing partnership agreement with Chelsea Football Club (started in 2006), which will now end on 30th June 2017 instead of 30th June 2023 initially. As a result, the German group has received a compensation payment that we initially estimated at EUR60m but in light of the announcement yesterday, we now assume a EUR70m one-off gain that plays positively in Q2 (+160bp) and in 2016 (~40bp).
- Third sales and earnings guidance upgrade this year. Beside the sales target upgrade in February ("double-digit growth vs. "high single digit"), the Group has increased its sales and earnings guidance three times in a row, as highlighted in the table below. ADS now expects top line growth in the high teens and considering the above-mentioned margin tailwinds, ADS is targeting a 35-39% increase in net income from continuing operations to EUR975-1,000m.

Main FY16 guidance:

	March '16	April '16	May '16	July '16
Sales FX-n growth	+10-12%	"Around 15%"	"Around 15%"	"High teens"
Operating margin	6.5%	6.6-7%	"Around 7%"	"Up to 7.5%"
Net income * growth	+10-12%	+15-18%	"Around +25%"	+35-39%

* Net income from continuing operations

VALUATION

- No time to stop! After a 56% rally in 2015, the share price has soared 60% ytd to record levels. Pending the H1 results conference call that will provide more details about H2 and beyond (e.g.: operating leverage, future divestiture of TMaG, etc.), we place our FV under review.

NEXT CATALYSTS

- adidas Group is due to report H1 2016 earnings on 4th August.

Bryan Garnier stock rating system

For the purposes of this Report, the Bryan Garnier stock rating system is defined as follows:

Stock rating

BUY	Positive opinion for a stock where we expect a favourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential upside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
NEUTRAL	Opinion recommending not to trade in a stock short-term, neither as a BUYER or a SELLER, due to a specific set of factors. This view is intended to be temporary. It may reflect different situations, but in particular those where a fair value shows no significant potential or where an upcoming binary event constitutes a high-risk that is difficult to quantify. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
SELL	Negative opinion for a stock where we expect an unfavourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential downside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
