ANALYSIS

- This morning, Ipsen released mixed numbers for its third-quarter report, still characterised by the divergence of its two business units: on one hand, Specialty Care is growing well into the double-digit area (+17.8%), driven by Somatuline which is not slowing-down (+34.1%) and despite a weak Dysport (tough in Russia + importation issues in Brazil); on the other hand, Primary Care is suffering more than expected and the trend is worsening as the situation in emerging markets is not improving while the new commercial strategy in China is taking more time to pay off than anticipated.
- This translates into an adjustment for the FY guidance, upwards in Specialty Care (from >12% to >15% growth) and downwards in Primary Care (from flat to -3%/-5%). We had anticipated those differences vs initial guidance with respectively +15.5% and -11% in reported terms i.e. including negative Fx impacts. All in all, considering the weight of each of the two business units, the new guidance suggests total sales for the group in 2016 close to EUR1.6bn (about EUR20m above current consensus estimates). Moreover, and with no surprise, the anticipated product mix is also resulting in an operating margin favourable mix effect and the guidance is now 22% (vs 21%). We were already above 22% in 2016 but the consensus had 21.6%.

VALUATION

- In the final analysis, although Q3 numbers are a touch below estimates, the fact that this comes primarily from Primary Care which is poised to decline over time, while Specialty Care still performs strongly, with unchanged to slightly improved perspectives for the full year, makes us believe that share price reaction should not be too bad. With Cabometyx launch coming, Ipsen is still a BUY.

Bryan Garnier stock rating system

For the purposes of this Report, the Bryan Garnier stock rating system is defined as follows:

Stock rating

- BUY Positive opinion for a stock where we expect a favourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential upside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
- NEUTRAL Opinion recommending not to trade in a stock short-term, neither as a BUYER or a SELLER, due to a specific set of factors. This view is intended to be temporary. It may reflect different situations, but in particular those where a fair value shows no significant potential or where an upcoming binary event constitutes a high-risk that is difficult to quantify. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
- SELL Negative opinion for a stock where we expect an unfavourable performance in absolute terms over a period of 6 months from the publication of a recommendation. This opinion is based not only on the FV (the potential downside based on valuation), but also takes into account a number of elements that could include a SWOT analysis, momentum, technical aspects or the sector backdrop. Every subsequent published update on the stock will feature an introduction outlining the key reasons behind the opinion.
